Young Anna Molloy inspired the establishment of Anna's Celebration of Life Foundation with a mission to ensure kids like her had the necessary devices and tools to enhance their lives. Her parents often recall the first time Anna received her wheelchair, giving her the freedom and independence necessary to celebrate her "specialness." The smile on her face was matched only by the joy and comfort they had, knowing she could now experience life like so many other kids that were blessed to live without tubes or tanks.

Anna succumbed to her ongoing battle on July 31, 2008 at the age of 12. She lived her life with a giant and courageous spirit and an amazing sense of humor that kept everyone she knew on their toes. Anna impacted the lives of so many while she was with us and continues to do so today. Her smile and presence are missed by all who knew her. Her spirit lives on in all of us as we continue her mission, to ensure that all children with special needs are afforded the joy of celebrating their own specialness.

One huge heart will change
